

AUSTRALIA TO SWITZERLAND ON A BIKE

MEDIA RELEASE 1 / April 2006

It started with an idea, turned into a dream and now its about to become reality.

Throw together two guys who share a love of nature and sense of adventure, are best mates and only a little bit crazy and you get a bicycle trip of a lifetime - Australia to Switzerland on two wheels!

Alex Kaeslin left Switzerland in 2003 to come to Australia after working many years for a Swiss Bank. He travelled extensively throughout the country before settling in Melbourne to study for the Diploma of Arts Applied Photography at the International College of Creative Arts (ICPP), previously known as the International College of Professional Photography.

After graduating in 2005, he decided to focus on his career goal of combining his passion for photography with a love of nature and interest in social and environmental issues.

After years of planning and preparation this promising young photographer and his best friend, Albano Tundo, will be leaving Darwin, Australia, in May 2006 and heading to East Timor by boat to start their journey, bikes laden with their equipment and worldly possessions for the next two years and the adventure documented for the world to share. This journey will result in incredible images from all over the world in both still photography and film.

You can share in the adventure online (www.alexkaeslin.com) with regularly updated photos and stories from the road and even subscribe to the newsletter for a more in-depth glimpse of life on two wheels - the boys would love you to be a part of this trip!

Alex is dedicating this journey to his late father, Willy Kaeslin, "Without his love and support this trip would still just be a dream."
